BURTON FLEMING HISTORY GROUP.

At our February meeting Jennifer Dunne from Scarborough Museum Trust presented a talk on the Mesolithic site of Star Carr. She began by describing the location of the site and its discovery un the 1940s by Scarborough archaeologist John Moore.

After the last Ice Age there was period of rapid climate change and people had to adapt in the changing environment. As Lake Flixton formed people began to inhabit its shores and it is in these areas where many of the finds have been located. After John Moore made the first discovery a team of archaeologists, zoologists and botanists was set up to investigate the site. They found wood, plant matter, axes, scrapers, small flints and animal remains including brown bear, wolf and elk. Over the years the team found a system of walkways and enough evidence to piece together how people lived and hunted during their occupation of the site between 9300 BC and 8400 BC.

We were shown many pictures of animal remains and artefacts. There were also slides of reconstructed life at Star Carr. Jennifer explained that many of the finds had been so well preserved because of the peat land they were found in but went on to describe how, over the years, the land is slowly drying out and as a consequence they are in danger of losing what is left because the preservation is in decline and yet as this is happening there are still many questions to be asked of the site. What was the purpose of the site ? Why have no boats been found? Why, surprisingly, have no human remains ever been found which leaves the need to ask and explain how the people treated their dead. There is now a permanent exhibition of Star Carr finds and artefacts at the Rotunda Museum, Scarborough

Our next meeting is on Thursday 24th March when Michelle Beadle from Hull Archives talks on The Life and Achievements of Amy Johnson. The secretary will also have final details of our end of season visit to the Church of St Peter and St Paul in Pickering planned for May 12th. Meetings held in the Village Hall and start at 7-30pm. Admission is £2 and everyone welcome.

Dear Friends,

The season of Easter is with us once more. All the trauma of Holy Week, from the Hosannas on Palm Sunday through the sharing of the Last Supper to the cross on Good Friday. This is the most holy of holy times for Christian folks.

But then, of course, we have the glory of Easter Day, the day of resurrection, the day when Jesus rose from the dead, the day that symbolises to Christians the promise of eternal life. Alleluia, He is risen !!

A blessed Easter to you all and we hope to welcome you to our Easter services.

with love,
Revd Barbara

Bus Route 124

A consultation was carried out recently by ERYC surrounding proposed changes to the 124 bus service. ERYC has now completed the consultation and the procurement process for a new contractor to deliver this service from April 2016. Responses to the consultation were sadly very low, with only 3 passengers and 4 parish councils responding. As a result of this we have developed the attached timetable as a means of maintaining a link to Bridlington and Driffield.

The new timetable will start on Wednesday 6th April and will be provided by East Yorkshire Motor Services. Please note the last day Acklam's Coaches will provide the service will be Thursday 31st March and there will be NO service on Saturday 2nd April. The new timetable is attached and further information can be obtained by calling the EYMS BusLine on 01482 59 29 29.
